Good For The Environment

A glass bottle that is sent to landfill can take up to a million years to break down. By contrast, it takes only 30 days for a recycle bottle to leave your factory recycling bin and appear as a new glass container. Even it can be recycled repeatedly, again and again, with no loss of purity or quality in the glass.
Plastic is an artificial substance designed for human needs, so it is difficult for the environment to completely integrate. Much of the plastic thrown away languishes in landfills for decades with no respite. Recycling is one key to removing most of it from the environment, but there is no unanimity among the types of plastic that are manufactured. There are six distinct types of resin that directly translate into six individual codes, plus one catch-all category. These include, in order of their code, polyethylene terephthalate, high density polyethylene, polyvinyl chloride, low density, polyethylene, polypropylene and polystyrene. Polyethylene is the most popular resin.

Some resins may be stronger or more flexible than others. Certain resins may be linked to health problems. Not all of them are efficacious for recycling.
Compact the plastic for recycle purpose

RECYCLING CARTON BOXES & PAPERS

Paper cartons are everywhere, many of these cartons can be recycled, saving materials and preventing waste. There are many types of paper cartons. Corrugated cardboard is a very common material which can be recognized by the wavy lines you see inside the cardboard at the cut edges. Other materials include chipboard or boxboard, which is used to make cereal packets. Additionally, food and drink containers are often made of cardboard with a plastic or wax coating.

Recycling paper and other materials has a number of benefits. Recycled cartons don't end up in landfill, reducing the amount of waste that's dumped. Recycling also saves trees from being cut down to make new paper, and is more energy efficient, using between 28 and 70 percent less energy.

MSB SCRAP METAL would get itself involved in the trading of higher volumes of ferrous-based scrap metal which would yield higher profit margins due to the relative cheapness of ferrous based scrap metal.
